Overview

- > Study the theory module of the operator training course online through IPAF's eLearning programme
- > Fun, interactive learning methods; games, quizzes, videos and simulations
- > After completion of the online theory module, you must attend an IPAF-approved training centre to take the practical module. You will be tested on both your theoretical knowledge and practical skills

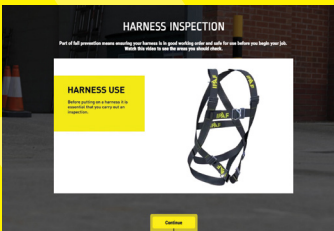

eLearning Module for Operator Course

IPAF's eLearning for MEWP operators is available for all MEWP categories (1a, 1b, 3a, 3b) and takes from around three hours to complete, depending on your level of MEWP knowledge. The eLearning module is divided into manageable sections that you can complete at your own pace. You can save and resume your training at any time.

MEWP operator eLearning does not replace practical training. Upon completion of your eLearning pre-theory test you must pass a supervised theory test at an IPAF-approved training centre. You must also successfully complete a minimum of a half-day of practical training and testing before you are issued with a PAL Card as proof of your qualification of IPAF operator training.

How to start your MEWP Operator online eLearning

1. Contact your nearest training centre to register for IPAF MEWP Operator eLearning training.
2. You will be sent an email inviting you to begin your eLearning module.
3. At the end of your eLearning module you will need to complete an online pre-theory test.
4. Once you have passed your pre-theory online test via eLearning, contact the same training centre again to schedule your theory test, practical training and assessment which take place in person at the training centre*

Due to the corona virus crisis, you now have up to 90 days (usually 45 days), from the date of completion of your pre-theory eLearning test to attend our training centre in order to take your supervised theory test and practical training and assessment modules. This timeframe will be monitored by IPAF in line with latest developments.*
